

COVID-19 Update for UK Employees | 02/10/2020

Travel Corridors – Poland and Turkey added to quarantine list

Turkey and Poland are being removed from the UK's travel corridor list after 4am Saturday 3rd October, and people arriving from abroad who breach Covid-19 quarantine restrictions in England face tougher fines of up to £10,000. Those arriving in England from the two countries – as well as the Caribbean islands of Bonaire, St Eustatius and Saba – will have to isolate for 14 days. Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, which have devolved powers over quarantine restrictions, will remove the locations from their travel corridors at the same time.

Travellers arriving in England from countries subject to two-week quarantine restrictions can already be fined £1,000 for breaking isolation rules, but under measures that come into force on Friday, those who repeatedly breach quarantine restrictions after international travel could be fined up to £10,000.

Avoiding COVID-19 in our daily lives

During the last week three of our UK colleagues were tested positive for COVID-19, which is a significant increase considering there had only been two previous CEMEX UK employee cases since March.

It is very clear that our teams at all operating sites have implemented very effective processes and controls to keep everyone safe and healthy – thank you to everyone for remaining vigilant in all our operations.

It is also clear that the biggest COVID risks in our daily lives is from interactions in public places and in our personal lives. All three cases in the last week were tracked back to social activities during personal time. It reminds us all that the virus is still circulating and it is so important to follow the FOUR BEHAVIOURS THAT SAVE LIVES when we are away from work.

Protect Yourself & Others

We must all remain vigilant to the risks, in particular –

- If we have any suspicion that we may have symptoms, don't ignore it – we must all inform our line manager and stay at home isolating if not feeling well
- It's very quick and easy now to obtain a COVID-19 test – there is more NHS capacity for testing
- If you or a member of your household have any symptoms – don't come in to work, contact your line manager who will consult with HR and H&S as necessary...we must all ensure we do the right thing...tell someone and keep everyone safe.
